ARCHIVES

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

George H. Kehm
1930-

Transferred from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary
George H. Kehm was born in New York City in 1930. Following his early education, Mr. Kehm proceeded to Queens College in Flushing, NY where he attained a B.S. in chemistry. His B.D. was earned at Princeton Theological Seminary in 1954 and from there Kehm moved on to Harvard where he got his Th.D. in 1967. Post-doctoral study was pursued in Basel, Switzerland, 1960-1961 and at the University of California at Berkeley in 1968.

Dr. Kehm became an instructor at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary in 1961. From 1963-1967 he was an Assistant Professor, becoming an Associate in 1967, and in 1991 Kehm was installed in the James Henry Snowden chair of Systematic Theology. Kehm was a popular speaker at churches in the larger area, and throughout his career he published widely in a variety of theological publications.

George Kehm retired from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary in 1996.

The archival record of George H. Kehm contains his biographical and educational information as well as articles relating Biblical text to issues of modern life.
KEHM, George H. (96:2).

INVENTORY; Personal.

Photograph; Biographical Statement.
Inauguration of The James Henry Snowden Chair of Systemic Theology and Installation of George H. Kehm, Th.D. as Snowden Professor of Systematic Theology (2 copies).
Inaugural Address: Recovering Creation (2 copies).
“Two of Dr. George H. Kehm’s major research interests….
Correspondence: John W. McLeister to Library Staff, April 1996.

FF 1.

FF 2.

FF 3.

FF 4.

Phenomenology and Hermeneutics: A Question About the Method of Uncovering the Essence of Ecclesia in Edward Farley’s ECCLESIAL MAN,
November 14, 1979;
To: Faculty, From: George Kehm: The Branch of Theology called “Practical” or “Pastoral” Theology, March 28, 1977.

FF 5.

Report…Ordain a Woman as an Elder or Minister, May 13, 1974.

FF 6

FF 7.

FF 8.
KEHM, George H. (96:2).

Article: Pannenberg’s Theological Program, Fall 1968. FF 10.

Completed October 2001