ARCHIVES

Pittsburgh Theological Seminary

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Ronald Henry STONE

2003.1

Transferred from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary
Ronald Henry Stone graduated from Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa, where he earned his B.A. His B.D. was conferred by Union Theological Seminary, in New York City and his M.A. and Ph.D. from Columbia University, also in New York. Before his appointment to Pittsburgh Theological Seminary as Associate Professor of Ethics, Dr. Stone was a member of the faculty at Union Seminary in New York, and Columbia University. He also had taught at Vassar College and Morningside College.

SCOPE

Ronald Stone was author of a number of books, multiple articles and book reviews. There are also sound recordings in the library of presentations given at Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. Dr. Stone, in 1985, was a visiting professor to United Theological College in Bangalore, India and from 1972-80 was adjunct professor at the University of Pittsburgh. An extensive listing of publications can be seen in the CALVIN record.
I. INVENTORY.

History and Scope.

Vita: Ronald H. Stone; photo.
FF 1.

Introduction to Ethics, 1998-99.
Center for Business, Religion and the Professions, Fall, 1997.
Stone inauguration to John Witherspoon Chair -- Ethics, 1992.
Theologians...'Just War.'
Paul Tillich: …Protestantism and Marxism.
FF 2.

Article: Stone, R.H. The Distinction Between Personal and Public Morality.
Article: Stone, R.H. The Urban Ethos of Seminary Education. 1988.
Publications.
FF 3.

MS: Reformed Faith and Politics.
FF 4.

MS: Liberation and Change.
FF 5.