Elisha Pope Swift
(1790-1865)
Western Missionary Society
1810-1835

Transferred from Western Theological Seminary
Elisha Pope Swift (1790-1865) served the Church for thirty years as pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Allegheny, Pennsylvania, as founder of the Western Missionary Society and of the Board of Foreign Missions. He is also identified with the development of Western Theological Seminary (an antecedent of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary). The Western Missionary Society was the carrier of the Gospel to the American frontier, with a particular concern for the Native American population.

The Elisha Pope Swift/Western Missionary Society record group contains voluminous correspondence exchanged between those who served on the frontier, riding the circuit and preaching up and down the country as it was then known, and those who managed the affairs of the organization in Pittsburgh.
