Elisha Pope Swift/Marjorie Barnhart
The Swift/Barnhart collection is composed of letters, papers, pamphlets, records of the Missionary Society, artifacts of the Swift family and the manuscript of Apostle's Seed.

Elisha Pope Swift (1790-1865) served the Church in Allegheny, Pennsylvania, now Pittsburgh's Northside. He founded the Western Missionary Society and is identified with the development of Western Theological Seminary (an antecedent of Pittsburgh Theological Seminary). The function of the missionary society was to carry the Gospel to the American frontier.

Marjorie Barnhart, a descendant of Dr. Swift gathered family and Western Missionary Society records to author her work, Apostle's Seed, the story of the men who rode the circuit as the American frontier moved west and the Church began intermingling with the Native Americans.

SCOPE

The Swift/Barnhart collection is composed of letters, papers, pamphlets, records of the Missionary Society, artifacts of the Swift family and the manuscript of Apostle's Seed.
